

37th NATIONAL DEBATE TOURNAMENT

Colorado Springs, Colorado

Hosted by
THE COLORADO COLLEGE

March 30 - April 2, 1983

The National Debate Tournament

The National Debate Tournament began at the United States Military Academy in 1947. The NDT was organized and run by West Point for its first twenty years. In the early years of the tournament, the rules were determined by West Point administration in consultation with such debate coaches as A. Craig Baird of Iowa, G. M. Musgrave of Des Moines, Alan Nichols of Southern California, E. R. Nichols of Redlands, and Joseph O'Brien of Pennsylvania State. At the first tournament in 1947 twenty-nine colleges participated in five "seeding" rounds and four elimination rounds over a three day period. Some of the preliminary features of the tournament were that no school in the seeding rounds would meet a school within five hundred miles of it and no coach would judge a school from his own district. Many traditions were started at West Point that year, some of which still remain today. The "big board," announcement of round pairings, cadet escorts, the gathering of teams meeting each other under the school banner of the affirmative team, and team signs in the rooms.

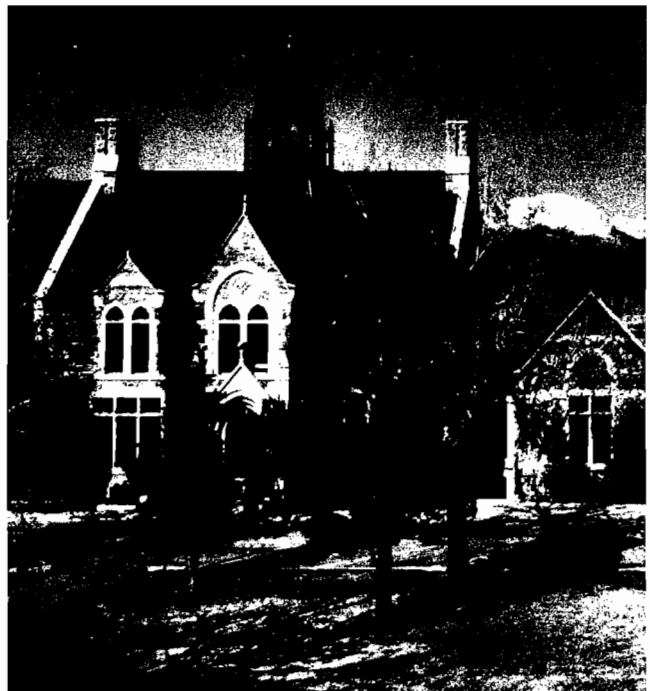

In 1967, the National Debate Tournament entered a new era as the American Forensic Association assumed responsibility for the Tournament. With this new leadership, the NDT moved from West Point and has been hosted by a different school each year since. The direct control of the tournament became the responsibility of a national committee elected by those schools supporting the tournament. Over the years, the tournament has expanded to sixty-two teams with various procedures used for their selection.

In the early days of the tournament teams were selected by district nominating committees. This later was replaced by some form of qualifying tournament in most districts. In recent years certain large tournaments were designated as national qualifiers, but today we rely on a combination of district tournaments and at-large bids. As debate has developed in the last ten years, other refinements have been added to the tournament including the ten minute rule, elaborate striking procedures, judging qualifications, and critiques of the final round.

One key element of the National Debate Tournament has been the support of past participants and community leaders. The early contributions of the United States Military Academy are amplified by George Walker for whom the permanent second place trophy is named. Walker was an excellent debater for West Point who won the NDT in 1956 and placed second in 1957. The support of professional men is typified by Sigurd S. Larmon for whom the permanent first place trophy is named. Mr. Larmon's generous support of the National Debate Tournament has been one of the key reasons why the tournament has survived. In recent years financial grants from the Ford Motor Company have made it possible for the tournament to prosper. Their support is recognized in the Ford Fund watches for the final round participants.

Perhaps the most important aspect of the National Debate Tournament through the years has been the people associated with it. Many key people in the speech discipline, legal profession and other fields have received communicative and argumentative training from debate and most have displayed these skills in the National Debate Tournament.

To the Participants in the 1983 National Debate Tournament:

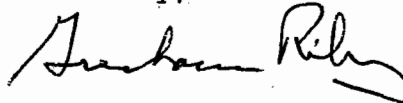

The entire Colorado College community is proud to serve as the host for the 1983 National Debate Tournament. We extend a warm welcome to debaters, their coaches, and the judges of this year's competition.

Participation in forensics contributes in important ways to the development of those skills which are at the core of a liberal arts and sciences education. Among these skills are the ability to communicate clearly, the ability to evaluate potential pieces of evidence, and the ability to develop cogent lines of argument. Because of the compatibility between what you are about and what we are as an institution of higher education, we are honored to have you in our midst.

Professor Al Johnson and his colleagues have worked hard in order to assure that this tournament will be a successful and enjoyable event. I commend them for their good work and assure you that their efforts will be successful. Welcome to the Colorado College campus and I hope that it will be possible for you to visit us again in the future.

Warmest regards, best wishes, and good luck.

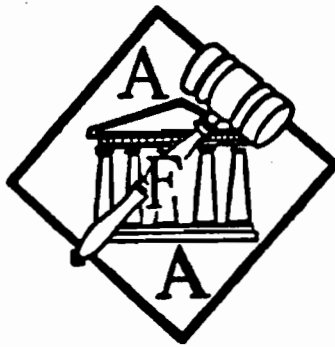

Sincerely,

Gresham Riley

The National Debate Tournament 1983

RESOLVED: That All United States Military Intervention into the Internal Affairs of Any Foreign Nation or Nations in the Western Hemisphere Should Be Prohibited.

The thirty-seventh National Debate Tournament is sponsored by the American Forensic Association and the Ford Motor Company Fund. District and national committees have expended much time and effort to insure that the tournament reflects the highest quality debating throughout the nation.

Sixteen teams were selected at-large by the National Debate Tournament Committee on the basis of outstanding records prior to the District tournaments. Thirty-six teams representing the nine Districts were invited on the basis of their superior debating in District tournaments. Ten additional teams were selected by the National Committee on an at-large basis after the District tournaments.

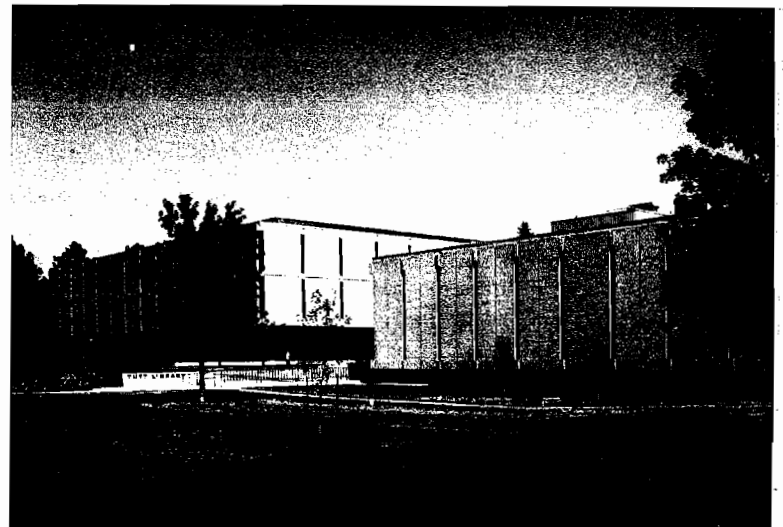

Guest judges, recommended by their District committees and selected by the tournament director, join coach-judges accompanying the debate teams to staff three-man judging panels. In the first two preliminary rounds, judges are assigned according to the discretion of the director with the following constraints (in descending order of importance): 1) the judge cannot judge a team from his or her school, 2) the judge shall not judge a team she/he has previously judged on the side, 3) the judge shall not judge a team on his/her conflict of interest list, 4) the judge shall not judge a team she/he has heard on the opposite side, 5) a judge shall not judge a team on whose strike list she/he appears, 6) a judge shall not judge a team from his/her own district, 7) a judge shall not be assigned to a panel which has a previously assigned judge from his/her district, 8) a judge shall not be assigned in excess of the number of rounds for which she/he is obligated to the tournament. Beyond these considerations, judges are assigned to a round on the basis of random selection. In rounds three through eight of the preliminary rounds and in the elimination rounds, judge panels are constituted on the basis of the mutual preferences of the teams involved in the round. These standards are designed to provide the best balance and highest quality criticism and evaluation of debate rounds.

The first round is matched on a pre-set schedule based upon the order in which teams qualified for the tournament with schools from the same district not meeting. All other odd numbered rounds are paired on the basis of direct power (high records meeting high records). All even numbered rounds are paired on the basis of high-low records within brackets. Any team could be paired against any other school in the preliminary rounds, and against any other team in the elimination rounds. On the basis of records in the eight preliminary rounds, the top sixteen teams are selected by win-loss records, total ballots, and total adjusted speaker points for elimination round competition. Four rounds of elimination round competition culminates in the selection of one team as the national champion of collegiate debate. Awards are given to the individual speakers after eight rounds of preliminary competition. Ten speakers are recognized on the basis of adjusted speaker points, with high-lows being dropped up to four times.

Officials of the National Debate Tournament and the members of the American Forensic Association are grateful to the Ford Motor Company Fund for the generous grant which helped make this tournament possible. This support is recognized in the Ford Motor Fund Awards for the final round participants. We are also grateful to Mr. Sigurd S. Larmon for donating the rotating Larmon Trophy, emblematic of the national debate championship, to Mr. and Mrs. George Walker for donating the rotating second-place Walker Memorial Trophy, and to District IX for donating the rotating top speaker trophy.

We are most grateful to Al Johnson of Colorado College and District IX for their cooperation and assistance in making tournament arrangements. We are also indebted to Gresham Riley, president of Colorado College; Glenn Brooks, Dean of the College; Robert Broughton, Vice President for Financial Affairs; James Crossey, Director of Physical Plant; Ethel Loughmiller, Supervisor of Central Services; and to all the staff in the Registrar's office for their support and cooperation in planning and arranging the 1983 National Debate Tournament.
